

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

John Meggs,

Plaintiff(s), vs.

Circa Hospitality Group II LLC,

Defendant(s).

2:23-cv-01117-RFB-MDC

Order

Pending before the court is the parties' Stipulation to Extend Deadlines Set By The Joint Discovery Plan and Scheduling Order ("Stipulation") (ECF No. 21). The Court denies the Stipulation. The Court is concerned about the admitted "little discovery that has been conducted." ECF No. 21 at 2:11-12. The parties must diligently pursue their cases. See Bonham v. Daniels, 2023 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 164172, at *5 (D. Nev. Sept. 14, 2023).

The parties are also reminded they must cooperate with each other in good faith in scheduling depositions and coordinating discovery. See e.g., LR IA 1-3(f). That said, one party may unilaterally notice depositions for a reasonable date if unable to coordinate a mutually agreeable date after a good faith effort to do so. See FRCP 31(b)(1). The Court is concerned about the plaintiff twice cancelling depositions one day prior to their scheduled date. This is unreasonable. The Court did not see any extenuating circumstances articulated in the Stipulation which precluded plaintiff from contacting defendant within a reasonable time after receiving notice of the depositions to reschedule and propose new deposition dates.

- 10      ACCORDINGLY,

1. The Stipulation (ECF No. 21) is DENIED.
2. Discovery is reopened with the deadlines as set forth above.

16 IT IS SO ORDERED.
